CAHIERS LINGUISTIQUES D’OTTAWA
Vol 32: 1-122
June/juin 2004

Psycholinguistics in Slavic
Rédactrice invitée/Guest editor
Danijela Stojanović

Danijela Stojanović
Avant-propos/ Foreword ............................................................ i

Articles
Denisa Bordag (University of Leipzig & Charles University in Prague)
Interlingual and Intralingual Interference during Gender Production in Czech and German ............................................................... 1

Alexei Kochetov (Simon Fraser University)
Processing of secondary articulation contrasts in different syllable positions:
Universal and language-particular factors ................................... 24

Roland Meyer (University of Leipzig & University of Regensburg)
Superiority Effects in Russian, Polish, and Czech: Judgments and Grammar ... 44

Olesya Olbishevska (University of Ottawa)
Acquisition of Aspect (Lexical vs. Grammatical) by Ukrainian Children ....... 66

Asya Pereltsvaig (Indiana University Bloomington)
Agreement in the Absence of Agreement: Gender Agreement in American Russian ................................................................. 87

Marina Sherkina-Lieber (University of Toronto)
The Cognate Facilitation Effect in Bilingual Speech Processing: The Case of Russian-English Bilingualism .................................................... 108

Roumyana Slabakova (University of Iowa)
Effect of Perfective Prefixes on Object Interpretation: A Theoretical and Empirical Issue ................................................................. 122
Avant-propos

Foreword

The papers assembled in this issue were presented in a special session on Slavic Psycholinguistics at the Formal Approaches to Slavic Linguistics 12, hosted by the Department of Linguistics, University of Ottawa, May 9-11 2003. This annual meeting was held for the first time in Canada and attracted linguists and scholars from Canada, United States and Europe.

We acknowledge the financial help from the following institutions: The Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada, The Slavic and East European Language Resource Center of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in the USA, in addition to the following organizations at the University of Ottawa: The University Research Fund, The Faculty of Arts, The Department of Linguistics, The Romance Linguistics Laboratory, and the Graduate Students’ Association. Thanks also go to the Faculty of Arts of the University of Ottawa for a Publication Grant that has made this volume possible. Special thanks go to the anonymous referees, who first reviewed the abstracts submitted for conference presentations, and who later reviewed papers submitted for publication.

Danijela Stojanović
Department of Linguistics
McGill University/University of Ottawa